Celebrate Labor Day

I recently read a great story about Captain Charles Plumb, a graduate from the Naval Academy, whose plane, after 74 successful combat missions over North Vietnam, was shot down. He parachuted to safety, but was captured, tortured and spent 2,103 days in a small box-like cell.

After surviving the ordeal, Captain Plumb received the Silver Star, Bronze Star, the Legion of Merit and two Purple Hearts, and returned to America and spoke to many groups about his experience and how it compared to the challenges of every day life. Shortly after coming home, Charlie and his wife were sitting in a restaurant. A man rose from a nearby table, walked over and said, "You're Plumb! You flew jet fighters in Vietnam from the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk. You were shot down!"

Surprised that he was recognized, Charlie responded, "How in the world did you know that?" The man replied, "I packed your parachute." Charlie looked up with surprise. The man pumped his hand, gave a thumbs-up, and said, "I guess it worked!"

Charlie stood to shake the man's hand, and assured him, "It most certainly did work. If it had not worked, I would not be here today."

Charlie could not sleep that night, thinking about the man. He wondered if he might have seen him and not even said, "Good morning, how are you?" He thought of the many hours the sailor had spent bending over a long wooden table in the bottom of the ship, carefully folding the silks and weaving the shrouds of each chute, each time holding in his hands the fate of someone he didn't know. Plumb then began to realize that along with the physical parachute, he needed mental, emotional and spiritual parachutes. He had called on all these supports during his long and painful ordeal.

As managers and co-workers, how many times a day, a week, a month, do we pass up the opportunity to thank those people in our company who are "packing our parachutes?" Let's all remember that each and every task at Carrico is an important contribution in handcrafting quality furniture. Support in sales and delivery of Carrico Office Furniture to customers is also important. This Labor Day Weekend you have any extra day to spend with the family . . . perhaps complete something on your "Honey Do List" or to simply relax. Let's each take time to reflect on the power of the fruits of our labor.

Mary and I want to thank each member of the Carrico team!
We appreciate your unique contributions to our collective success.
You can take pride in knowing thanks to you, we offer quality furniture at a competitive price. During these economic times, so many companies have cut production tremendously and some have even closed. Thanks to you and your special contributions, everyone is earning a paycheck and we are weathering this economic climate. Times are not as good as they once were, but we have weathered worst. Better times are on the horizon.

Mary and I appreciate the entire Carrico team, support vendors, and our loyal customers.

Celebrate Labor Day with your friends and family!
